Newtonville, Massachusetts

1787. An Ordinance For The Apportionment Of Land In The Territory Of the United States Northwest Of the Ohio River. The territory shall be surveyed into townships of thirty-six sections, each section one square mile, and one section in each township shall be set aside for the support of local education . . .

It is eleven years since the Declaration.

The candle flickered as the man at the desk leaned back and replaced the feather pen in its stand. He glanced at the page before him and began to read aloud ". . . We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

Much has happened since that July Fourth in 1776 when Thomas Jefferson set forth the principles for a new nation—the United States of America. These principles, passed on from one generation to the next, now rest in our hands in a world whose dangers present great and constant challenges. We must be prepared to meet these challenges, to sacrifice ourselves in order to uphold, to strengthen, and to further the democratic ideals embodied in the Declaration of Independence and manifest throughout our history. 'Ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country," President Kennedy has urged.

We are eager to heed his call. We are young, but in our three years at Newton High School we have studied the past and present of our country, and 1857. A poor Kentucky ironmaker, William Kelly, receives U.S. Patent Number 17,628 as a result of his discovery that steel can be made by blowing cold air through iron ore . . .

It is eighty-one years since the Declaration.

have come, at last, to concern ourselves with the future. We must begin, today, to mold the thoughts and actions of an America in which we will soon play a major role.

We have already begun. We have taken an active interest in the world and America's place in the world. We have formed discussion groups, listened to speakers, debated key issues. We have supported a foster child in Italy and have participated in community projects and service organizations.

We are growing with our country. Of course we will make mistakes, just as our predecessors made mistakes. But we must look upon our failures only to learn from them, not to be discouraged by them. For even as we reaffirm our faith in the democratic ideal, we realize that it is a high ideal—a goal for which to strive. The importance lies not only in attaining the goal, but also in striving for it.

And so, as we leave Newton High School to become part of a greater history, we rededicate ourselves to the way of life which Americans in the past have sought to preserve. To this goal we, too, pledge "our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

1962. Peace Corpsman rises at five-thirty and walks two miles to the Ghana School to teach English, French, and history for eight hours. He coaches wrestling, advises the Debate Union, and lectures on world problems. Then the trek to his unelectrified home . . .

It is one hundred and eighty-six years since the Declaration.

1917. Bunting versus Oregon. The Supreme Court upholds maximum hour law. No person, male or female, shall work more than ten hours daily in any mill or factory . . .

It is one hundred and forty-one years since the Declaration.

Richard W. Mechem
Principal of Newton High School

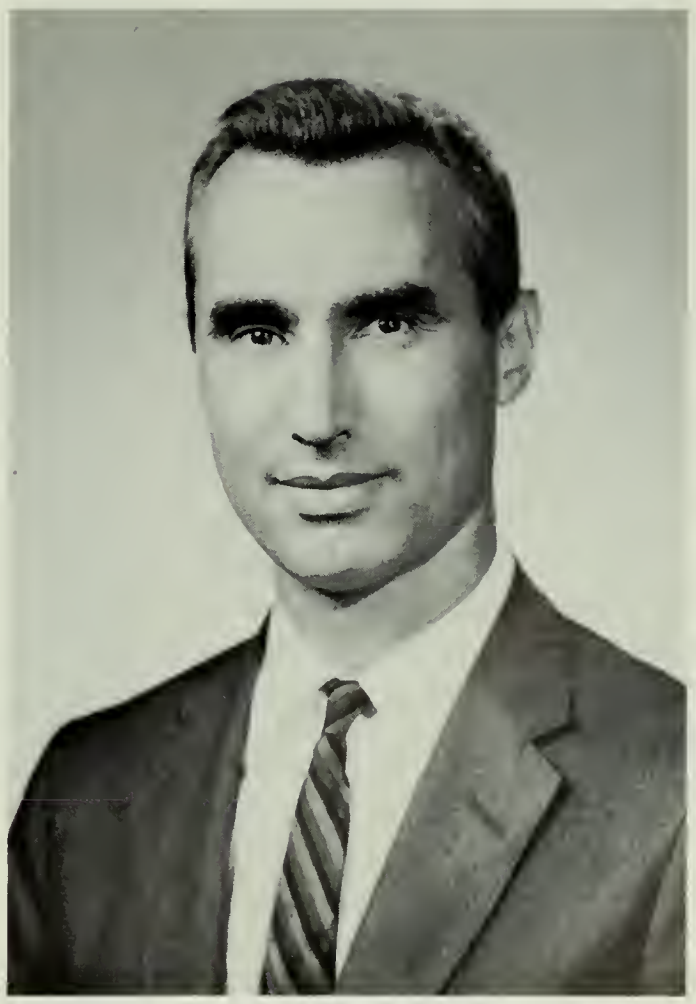

The theme of rededication is singularly appropriate. In our era of technology and bigness it is more important than ever before that we fight to retain the value of the individual. This fight calls for a rededication to the ideals of equality, independence, and individuality which have given such vitality to our democratic way of life.

May those of you who are leaving Newton High School in 1962 take advantage of, and further develop, our scientific civilization. In doing so, however, do not forget that far more important than civilization and progress is the integrity of the individual man.

ART DEPARTMENT

Mr. Schultz, Mr. Nelson, Miss Eliot.

"The world was always changing; it will always be changing; and who could know that better than the artist?"

Americans have always felt a strong pride in their indigenous work of art. Perhaps our first piece of art as an independent nation was the flag. Artistic originality has since characterized national growth. The addition of new states necessitated new designs for our flag. Western expansion prompted artists such as Remington. Portrait artists found inspiring subjects everywhere. The twentieth century with its rapid commercial development has opened new areas of advertising art. The Newton High Art Department prepares the student to contribute to our national heritage of art. The art majors are introduced to all facets of the field, painting, drawing, sculpture, and photography. Mr. Shultz reports that the class of 1962 has many talented students. A large number of the class have been accepted at the country's better art schools.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

"The business of America is business."
Calvin Coolidge

The enterprising Yankee pedlar, New York shipper, Pennsylvania steel baron, Northwest railroad magnate, Wall Street giant, and Western general-storekeeper are all fabled parts of American tradition.

Business has changed since Coolidge's Presidency. There is a new attitude toward the worker and consumer. The mimeograph machine, electric typewriter, address-o-graph, and IBM unit, having made business more efficient, have also necessitated a generation of push-button geniuses. Newton High School's Business Department taught 1006 of us typewriting, clerical, and other business skills this year. It helped students to develop powers of concentration and efficiency, and, in doing this, helped to fill future personnel needs.

Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Rossi, Miss Twiss, Mr. Chalmers, Mrs. Usas, Mr. Steinhope, visiting speaker: Dr. Everett, Miss Folley, Mr. Satlak, Miss Altieri, Mr. Wells, Miss Norman.

DRIVER EDUCATION

"The most advanced nations are always those who navigate the most."
Ralph Waldo Emerson

The Driver Education course at Newton High School has rapidly become a key part of many students' curricula. This year, for the first time, the Department taught Sophomores the techniques for navigating Newton streets. Through the work of such a vital department, Newton High School helped to increase the number of navigators in the country.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

First row: Mrs. Wofford, Miss Allen, Miss Sanguinetti, Mrs. Lee, Miss Langina, Miss Parker, Miss Ryan, Miss Gianferante, Miss Lee. Second row: Mrs. Levine, Mr. Warshaw, Miss Fineberg, Miss Eberhart, Mr. West, Miss Moncrieff, Mr. Rothman. Third row: Mr. Wolf, Mr. Harrer, Mr. Harris, Mr. Boyle, Mr. Reed, Mr. Jacobs, Mr. Papa. Missing: Miss Leathers, Miss Axelrod, Mr. Spink, Mr. Fleishman, Miss Porter.

"Let us dare to read, think, speak, and write."
John Adams

With the help of our English teachers' criticisms and corrections, this year we have so dared. In the past, it seems, even great writers were criticized by their contemporaries. James Fenimore Cooper, for example, found much to criticize in his contemporaries. Years later, Mark Twain, in his essay Fenimore Cooper's Literary Offenses, criticized Cooper's literary style. More recently, the English teachers at NHS tried to improve American writing (i.e. ours). There were lively class discussions, informative lectures, after-school help. And, of course, the red-ink comments, the Great Garble of correction symbols and the Great Pyramid of Unity, Coherence and Emphasis also aided us to "read, think, speak, and write."

MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

Seated: Mr. Spalding, Mrs. Ford, Mr. Ferguson, Miss Creehan, Mr. Shapiro. Standing: Mr. Brown, Mr. Rosen, Mr. Stephens, Mr. Bowman, Mr. Peterson, Mr. Geisman. Missing: Mr. Bailey, Mrs. Carpenter.

"Pioneers! O Pioneers!"
Walt Whitman

The Newton High School Mathematics Department is characterized by the American pioneering spirit. Just as the early Americans pushed their frontier westward in search of a new life, our Mathematics Department has yearly extended its frontiers to encompass revolutionary developments in school Mathematics. The UICSM, SMSG, and Advanced Placement programs have been systematically implemented at the High School. These new plans embody principles of Linear Programming, a result of American research in the Second World War. The Math Department is the frontier element of Newton High School and contributes much to the future of America.

HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

"Nothing helps scenery like ham and eggs."
Mark Twain

The Home Economics Department received many visitors this year, including a stylist from the Simplicity Pattern Company who conducted a fashion show utilizing our own very talented Newton High girls. On another occasion a home economist from the Boston Edison Company demonstrated the use of gas appliances.

Betty Crocker and Emily Post have created a unique role for the American woman. Our "Home Ec" Department, through its cooking, sewing, family relationships, home management, and consumer education courses has furthered the meritorious ideal of the American "housewife".

Mrs. Hardy, Mrs. Hilton

INDUSTRIAL ARTS DEPARTMENT

"There is no substitute for hard work."
Thomas Edison

The Industrial Arts Department this year put its students through some of the hardest work they encountered at the high school. The department offered training for jobs in industry and engineering, and also offered courses not directed toward specific careers. Boys profited greatly from this instruction, and many soon found that there was no substitute for the hard work and excellent training which they acquired from the department.

"My interest is in the future because I am going to spend the rest of my life there."
Charles F. Kettering

My English teacher doesn't understand me —can I switch to another class?—

How can I fit all the subjects I want into my schedule?—

Do I have to take typing just because my handwriting is illegible?—

Is there any hope of a college scholarship?—

Can you write a recommendation for me by tomorrow?

Such are typical examples of the barrage of questions that kept the patient guidance counselors of Newton High School in a constant state of feverish activity. Who could blame them for breathing a sigh of relief in June as they tried to smooth out their furrowed brows. After all, they worked tirelessly throughout the year to find the courses most suited to our abilities and needs and to help us plan for "after high school". If the graduating senior decided to go to work, he discussed with his counselor the various careers open and suited to him. If the student was planning a college education, his counselor aided him in selecting the schools from which he would benefit most. The Guidance Department was interested in helping the student plan for his future where, as the above quote suggests, he would spend the rest of his life.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

Seated: Mr. Rist, Mrs. Bailey, Mr. Skilken, Miss Richmond, Mr. Seltzer. Standing: Mr. Wiper, Mr. Silluzio, Mr. Wells, Mr. Malone, Mr. Hall, Mr. Bodman, Mr. Lent, Mr. Fowler.

"Everything comes to him who hustles while he waits."

Thomas Edison

In the finest Edison tradition Honourable Professors of the Science Department rushed through another year, microscopes, test tubes, and rulers in hand; sulphur fumes, slimy bits of arga trailing behind; and metal balls clattering to the floor. Students under this madcap tutelage benefited from what is nationally recognized as one of the finest high school science programs available.

SOCIAL STUDIES DEPARTMENT

"Time dissipates to shining ether the solid angularity of facts."

Ralph Waldo Emerson

The theme of this yearbook is American History, but the United States History course at Newton High School was only one of the many courses offered by the Social Studies Department. Other courses included Problems of Democracy, European History, World History, and Psychology. Each of these presented only a small part of the history of our universe, our world, our country, and ourselves. In each course we have learned that we cannot ever hope to define history (the above quotation gives only a small clue.) However, we have, from our study of events, personages, and trends, been able to draw some conclusions. Indivirual thought and research, so much a part of American life, was encouraged by our Social Studies teachers.

Seated: Mr. Prentiss, Miss Kalivas, Mrs. Alterman, Mr. Gallagher, Miss Seltzer, Mr. Ferguson, Mr. Connors. Standing: Mr. Gartner, Mr. Neal, Mr. Martin, Mr. MacDonald, Mr. Eliot, Mr. Hall, Mr. Hollman, Mr. Riesman.

LANGUAGE DEPARTMENT

"Training is everything . . ."
Mark Twain

There are over. 100 languages spoken in the world today. This necessitates a mastery of foreign tongues which, in turn, necessitates school language departments. Today, perhaps more than ever before, in the history of the United States, it is important that we understand the foreigner's newspaper, his novel, prayer, and street cry. Realizing this, the Newton High Language Department has constantly experimented with newer and faster methods of teaching languages.

Sixteen foreign language teachers taught 1200 Newton High students 1500 language elections this past year. The language lab, perfected and made available to more students, served also as an example to visiting educators.

READING CLINIC

Reading Clinic: Miss Rideout, Mr. Carey

"Today we need both wisdom and strength and that's the reason why Americans should Wake Up and Read!"
John F. Kennedy

And that's also the reason why Newton High School has a Reading Clinic. This year, the clinic served a two-fold purpose. First, it offered remedial reading courses to students having difficulty with reading skills ranging from pronunciation and spelling to comprehension and study methods. Secondly, the clinic offered developmental reading courses for students who, although good readers, wished to increase their speed, comprehension, and vocabulary. Many seeking help from the clinic received individual instruction as well as encouragement to "Wake Up and Read!"

Daniel Webster's words describe the wonderful and close relationship that has existed between Mrs. Ginevra G. Smith and Newton High School from the time that Mrs. Smith studied here as a student. Since then she has shown her loyalty and dedication to Newton High by serving as Executive Secretary to six of its principals. Her duties are various and valuable. She is an expert on school rules and traditions and is, therefore, a symbol of continuity and a source of information for the principal, faculty, students, and parents. She is the helpful woman so adept at maneuvering dates on the school calendar. She is also the administrator of college scholarship applications and in this way meets many seniors.

Mrs. Smith maintains faculty attendance and payroll records, and, above all, she is none the less a leakproof repository of confidential information. To the secretarial staff she is a guide and a mentor in the allocation of tasks, and a confidante and adviser as well.

Everyone at Newton High School extends his sincerest thanks to Mrs. Smith for her long and dedicated service.

ADAMS HOUSE

Francis J. Foster
Housemaster

"Each house may determine the rules of its proceedings . . ."
U. S. Constitution

Adams House, under its excellent new constitution, this year made and carried out its own rules. However, as Housemaster Foster says, the house's primary responsibility is not to determine rules for the student body, but to help them to understand themselves and their place in modern society. As the long list of Adams House members prominent in school activities, athletics and scholarship will testify, Mr. Foster and the Adams House staff have certainly fulfilled their responsibilities well.

A spirit of individualism has been an important part of the Adams House atmosphere this year. The House Council adopted a fairly conservative attitude, and, after careful investigation of all the pros and cons, decided, finally, not to institute some of the new innovations, such as coke machines, that the other houses did this year. The House Civics Committee organized a series of after school discussions, open to the whole student body and the faculty, on school, local and national problems. We are sure that this spirit of individualism, fostered by the housemaster, will lead many of the Adams House students to success in the future.

Among the many other activities sponsored by Adams House this year were three assemblies, one of which dipped into the vast house reservoir of theatrical and musical talent, and a holiday party that jammed the commons room and corridor with dancing and singing students.

Yes, we think it is safe to say that, like the other five houses at Newton High, Adams House is the best.

BACON HOUSE

"A man's house is his castle."

James Otis

Upon the wide green of the Newton High School campus stands the palatial Building III. There, the proper Bacon House Newtonians claimed complete jurisdiction. Clearly, the IBM room, the College Records Office, and the cafeteria were merely tolerated guests in Building III with space provided for them only through the grace of Bacon House.

Bacon House, home of the intellectual aristocrat, is the only house at NHS with an oriental rug and a fine art exhibit in its commons room. The halls of Building III are lined with colorful historical prints, and a "priceless" painting of Columbus is located in room 328. Bacon House also supported the Theater Arts Center of NHS and claimed prestige from the fact that the Chief Executive of the school chose to locate his offices within the house limits.

This year Bacon House organized a series of fine assemblies including a Christmas party, a cake sale, a Folk Sing, and a patriotic X-block clean-up campaign. Making use of its intellectual and cultural attributes, Bacon House, this year, proved itself a masterful Leader among Houses.

BARRY HOUSE

Richard D. Batchelder
Housemaster

"The used key is always bright."

Benjamin Franklin

Benjamin Franklin's words, uttered over two hundred years ago, came true this year in Barry House. Barry was centered around the "key of success" which hung nobly in the center of the commons room, reminding everyone of the many activities it opened. The X-block film forum, for example, provided interesting films on subjects ranging from politics in South America to Ghandhi. The key unlocked student spirit, enough to make the Barry House sale of pens, containing the school motto, a big success. In December, Barry House honor roll students sipped cider and ate donuts under the brightly shining Key. Each term a banner was awarded to the homeroom with the greatest number of people on the honor roll.

The contented member of Barry House was easily recognized any place in the school. He was interested and interesting, active and successful. His smiling face seemed to say,

"I am bigger than anything that can happen to me . . .
I am in the house and I have the Key."

House Council

BEALS HOUSE

"Let the far and the near unite . . ."

Thomas Paine

With its many diversified interests and activities, Beals House spread itself out "far and near," at the same time retaining an unquestionable unity. The physical characteristics of the House were also "far and near." Students were quite proud of their split-level house, and after X-blocks, those from distant 1324 and 1328 were crushed when they were instructed to use the halls of another house instead of the lecture hall of Beals House for passing. Such students wished so much to unite "the far and the near" in Beals House that the pressure they applied to the notorious traffic squad was often observed to be sufficient for the loyal students to gain passage over some of Beals House's sacred land.

Numerous Beals House activities included tutorials for seniors, service projects in the West End, tremendous support and success in sports, intresting speakers on controversial subjects, a (usually) efficient traffic squad, a distinct bookcover and coat-of-arms, a house newspaper, and a Music From Many Lands Show.

Students from "far and near" houses often united in Beals House to enjoy a welcomed addition to the Commons room—a coke machine!

"As Maine goes, so goes the nation."
American Political Maxim circa 1888

Back in 1888, Maine was, poltically speaking, a trend-setter. At Newton High School in the 60's it's Palmer House, the first house to sponsor a dance and originator of a House Ski Trip. Mr. Gradone, the new housemaster, enthusiastically pressed on to New Frontiers, supported by loyal councilmen. This year's impressive measures included a sophomore reception, two cake sales, a toy drive, a Christmas Party, a winter outing, a commons room workday, a rotation-system honor study, and—most radical of all—a coke machine!

Palmer House also sponsored a Folk Singing Assembly. Tony Saletan, just returned from a trip to Africa and Asia, sang folk songs from the exotic East, from pioneering Israel, and from awakening Africa. Palmer students, true to the spirit of their house, joined in the choruses with enthusiasm.

Thou most spirited of houses,
Thou who doth control the lower floors of building
two,
the green around the pathways numerous.
Thou to whom so many of us
give three years, Thou.
Green is thine air and round is the pedestal upon which the leprechaun rests.
But more than this, is life
within thy halls, smile-
fringed gaiety.
Fair house, of green, and orange and black, who didst originate the sale of
"Crumbles Golden,"
And didst sport the day of
"Smiley Riley."
Bold House, who entered sports with challenge in. Who came and left each game with grim spirit.
Bold House.
She cannot melt away. She cannot be forgotten while they fill the house with green
spirit and responsibility.
Oh joyful, joyful, ah fairly shared, thou wilt last
Fair House!

"The mechanic should sit down among levers, screws, wedges, wheels . . . like a poet among the letters of the alphabet."

Robert Fulton

Newton Technical High School, one of the oldest institutions of its kind in Massachuetts, has a noteworthy educational record and has broadened the scope of Newton secondary education. The school offers programs in eight technical and industrial skills basic to American economy: auto mechanics, cabinet making, drafting, electricity, electronics, printing, and sheet metal work. These fine Newton courses attracted students from other cities which have no technical schools of their own.

The four hundred hard working boys, although primarily concerned with vocational preparation, recognized the value of academic training and could be seen among the school's other English, history, and science students.

The AA, the Technical High self-rule organization, carried out duties similar to those of the Civics Committee and Orange Shield. Just as the Associates Council instituted "Downdressing" Bermuda Day, so the Tech High boys established a "Dress Up" day in December, and appeared in the finest Beau Brummell tradition.

It is the black smoke over Pittsburgh: it is the vast shipyards of Newport News; it is the steel girders of the Golden Gate at which the immigrant marvels. This is the Industrial America to whose future the Technical High School makes its vital contribution.

OUTSTANDING PRINTING STUDENTS

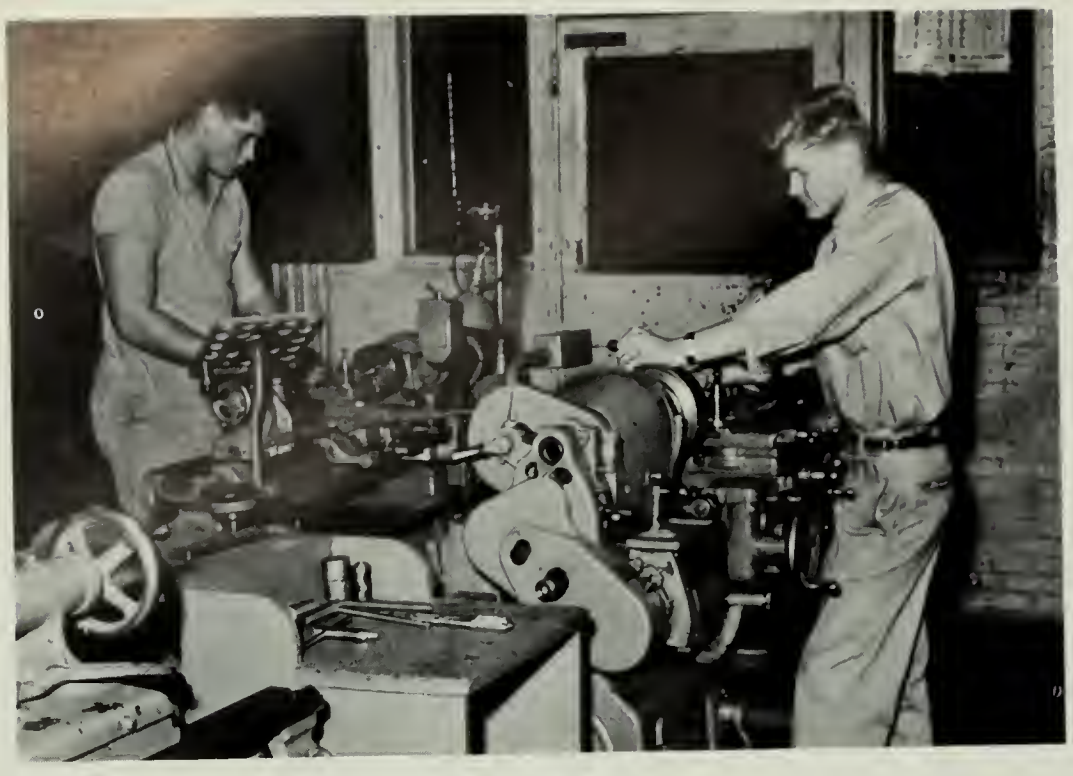

Mr. Thomas Mangan, Richard Brooks, John Proia, Mr. Ernest Reppucci.

Richard Brooks and John Proia, printing students at the Newton Technical High School, received Certificates of Recognition from the Graphic Arts Institute of New England.

The boys were selected as Outstanding Printing Students to participate in the Career Day activities of the Printing and Publishing Week Program. John and Richard spent the day as guests of the Recording and Statistical Corp., a Boston printing concern.

Mr. William McFarlin of Recording and Statistical guided the boys through a busy day of plant inspection as they observed the methods and machines used in the production and management areas of the company. At lunch time they were treated to a delicious meal at the Fox and Hounds in Quincy.

John and Richard can be proud of their achievements as are their printing instructors and the Director at Newton Technical High.

History of the Class of 1962

Our class history is a short one in comparison with the longer span of history we all hope to see. But it has been an eventful history and, as we are already beginning to realize, an important one. All of us rose, as it were, from private citizen to President, a rather amazing feat for over 650 students.

Like immigrants to a new country we sophomores arrived at Newton High School, a bit bewildered and in awe of our senior "forefathers," but ready and willing to make good on our own. The school was unbelievably crowded, and the tunnels and corridors a labyrinth set to trap unwary newscomers. We discovered that there were no elevators, in a spite of the expensive tickets, and that is really is possible to get to 23C.

Our first year was also the first year of the house plan, a program which proved successful and pleasing to everyone; we all felt a lot less like IBM numbers than our predecessors did. As sophomores we witnessed the "civil war" that broke out between North and South. Losing old friends was sad, but seperate we must and did.

Junior year was a year of new things: Mr. Mechem became our principal; there were two high schools for the first time; the result: better education in Newton and more space for us. There was even a Second American Revolution in our Junior year: we threw out the old Newton High School constitution and drew up an entirely new one.

Hurricane Esther canceled our first day of school, but soon afterwards we got started and had our first taste of self-rule with the organization of the Junior Class Government. Under the energetic leadership of Mr. MacDonald we planned the Junior Class Workday on November 17, 1960. Over one hundred juniors froze their hands and feet raking leaves and washing windows to earn a total of two hundred and forty-four dollars for the New England Home for Little Wanderers. This year we seniors watched the new Junior Class conduct another successful Workday. Don't forget, you upstarts, it was our idea!

Our Japanese Junior Prom was held in February at Newton South High. Colorful decorations and careful planning added much to the gaiety and success of the dance. A truly wonderful time was had by all.

1961 was the year of the Winter Carnival: snow statue contest followed by an informal dance. Bermuda Day, another innovation, was sponsored by the Associates Council to raise money for the Foster Child Program. For ten cents, everyone, including courageous teachers, was allowed to let his knees show for one day.

The Junior year closed with S.A.T.'s and College Boards. What, me worry about getting into the college of my choice?

The Senior year was one of wonderful last period studies, of confusion and frantic activity. "Gotta get those applications in, gotta cram for that exam." It was a year of local, national and world awareness for us: tutorials, discussion groups, newspaper articles. A year of protest, we think—something about cafeterias and boilers. Back to four lunches again.

Miss Gianferante took charge of us "Grand Old Seniors." A more efficient and enthusiastic person we never have seen! With Miss Gianferante as guide, we seniors, like the American pioneers, moved westward into Senior Supper. Our December 9th success was full of roast beef, square dancing, and that latest (western?) hit, the Twist. In March our Senior Night, an evening of skits, entertainment and fun, got rave reviews, which was only to be expected as it utilized our class' invaluable talent, much of it earlier displayed in that wonderfully successful Senior Play, You Can't Take It With You.

The college application Number-Board got pretty crowded towards the end. Congratulations, Senior! You got that job you wanted. So your insurance school finally decided to let you in? Then came the Senior Prom, the last one to be held in that doomed historical edifice—the Totem Pole.

Graduation ceremonies are always impressive and memorable. They mark the closing lines of our Newton High History. But we finish this history as any history is finished—with the sure knowledge that there will be more and that the humanity which lived the history already recorded must live the history yet to come.

Facing a rough schedule the Newton High School football team finished the campaign with a disappointing record. However, the record does not tell the entire story of a team that produced many thrills and came so close to upsetting high-flying teams. The Tigers threw a scare into powerhouse Arlington, but were stopped two yards short of a victory in a game that saw Newton at its peak. Newton scored more points against Beverly than any of Beverley's other opponents. In the traditional Thanksgiving day game, the Tigers battled Brookline to a standstill yielding in the end by a 14-0 score.

Although they underwent an important and necessary building season, the Newton High Cross Country Team, under the supervision of Coach Abner Bailey, completely swept the field against rival Newton South, and lost several others by heartbreaking margins. With the discovery of several promising young runners, bolstered by a fine group of regulars, the team performed its best in four years in their League and State Championships.

The 1961-1962 Newton High basketball team, plagued by injuries and in experience, nevertheless played exciting basketball and won several games. Co-captains Ken Smith and Skip Douctte both were hurt and missed the first half of the season. Thus, many juniors gained experience that will be of great benefit next year. With a junior varsity that was one of the best in its league, in addition to the many juniors on the varsity, next season should be the year that moves Newton out of the building process and into one of the league's top positions. We're all looking forward to the '62-'63 basketball season.

Coach Sarge Kinlin's powerful Newton High School surged to its first G.B.I. title in twenty-two years. Newton featured an outstanding defense and potent offense. The team avenged an early season loss, its only game, to defending champ Arlington. Led by goalie Don Mason and forwards Mike Ryan, Billy Cotter, Steve Colpitts, the team is looking forward to a successful showing in the State Tournament.

This year, as in the past two years, the Newton High Indoor track team, under Coach Lamoint Boyle and Mr. Malcolm Gallagher, again won the Met League Division Championship. Led by Captains Bruce Reed and "Tucker" Lillis, Newton remained undefeated in their five dual meets. Highlights of this fine season were: the team's victory over closest rival, Rindge Tech.; "Tucker" Lillis' meet record of 4:38.2; the relay team's (Murtha, Acchione, Lillis, Mazor) meet record of 2:57.3; and the high-jumping of Bruce Reed. Even with the graduation of many valuable senior trackmen, we look forward to the remaining team to continue the winning tradition of Newton.

Perhaps unknown to many of us at Newton High School, there is a second basketball team representing our school during the winter season. Coached by Robert Malone, the Newton Technical High, basketball team plays a rough schedule against other tech highs in the greater Boston Area. With the graduation of many of fast gears starters, Coach Malone was forced to build for the future, and is looking forward to a successful season next year.

RIFLE TEAM

Practicing at the West Newton Armory, ten men, coached by Mr. Harry Lent, and led by Captain Peter Wade, annually defend Newton's honor against other rifle teams. This year, our team has defeated all whom they have faced; outshooting their first five opponents and awaiting the end of this season to outshoot the remaining three. Top guns on this year's winning rifle team were Peter Wade and Wakely Purple.

The Newton High School Baseball team is looking forward to a successful year. Although only four lettermen are returning led by co-captains Don Mason and Bob Hathaway, the team hopes to outdo last year's spectacular performance.

Outdoor practice did not get under way until the latter part of March, but the team held practice under the watchful eyes of Coaches Ferguson and Fraktman in the drill shed.

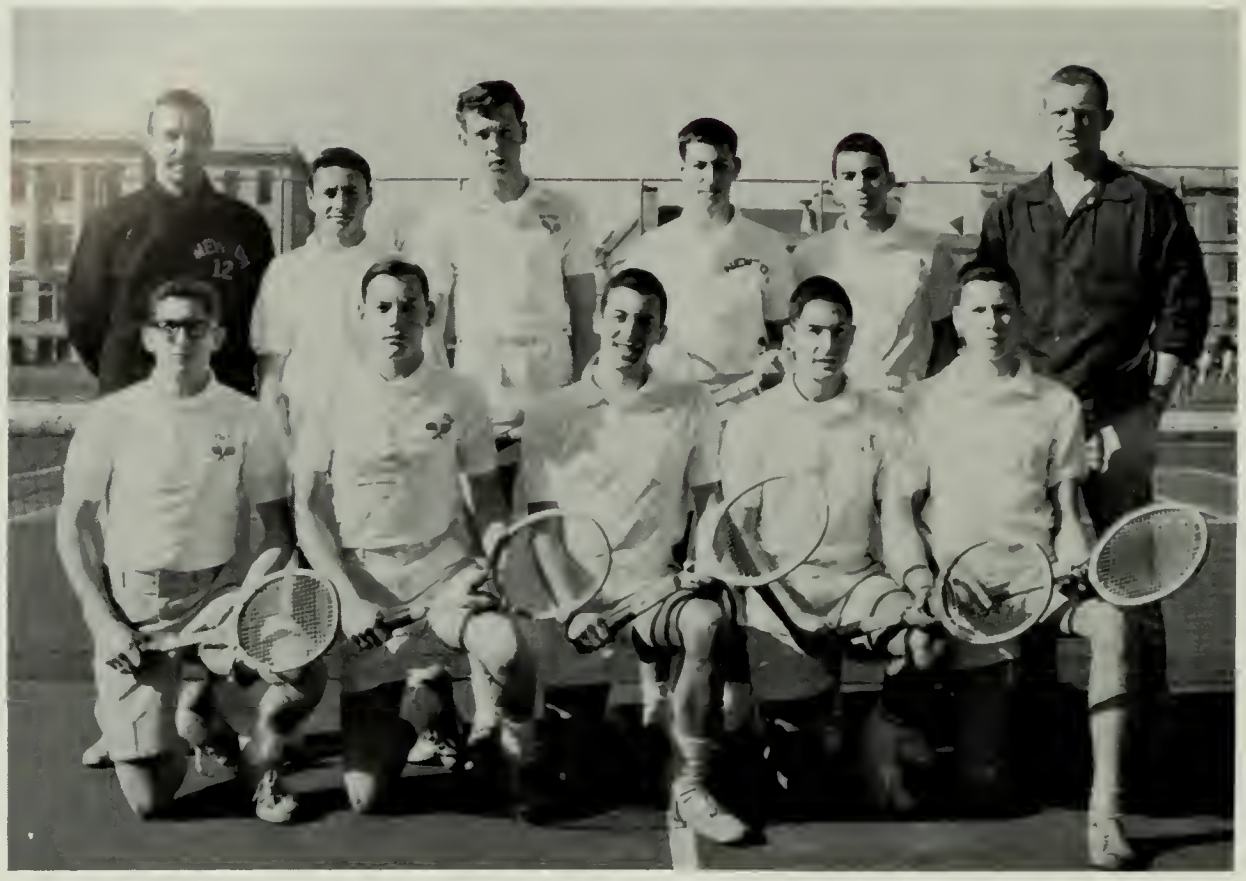

The team has ten opponents to face in quest of the suburban league championship and a chance at the state title.

We wish them the best of luck!

STANDING: Coach Elliot; J. Goldman; J. McHoen; R. Berezin; S. Gordon; Coach Jessup.

Although last year's tennis team was weakened by the loss of several players to the new high school, this year's team shows great potential. With three returning lettermen forming the nucleus of this year's tennis team and with several up and coming underclassmen Coach Gordon Eliot is looking forward to a highly successful season.

N H S HOCKEY TEAM

1962 G.B.I. LEAGUE CHAMPS

After cleaning up the G.B.I. League 12-1-1, our Newton High hockey team pushed right through the State Tourney, defeating Marian, Boston Latin, Archbishop Williams and Belmont losing only the final 2-1 heartbreaker to Melrose. Outstanding tournament performances were turned in by co-captain-goalie Don Mason, co-captain-center Mike Ryan, center Bill Cotter, wings Charlie Scammon and Terry MacLaughlin and defenseman Dick Nicolazzo. The whole team played consistently with a heart and spirit seldom seen anywhere.

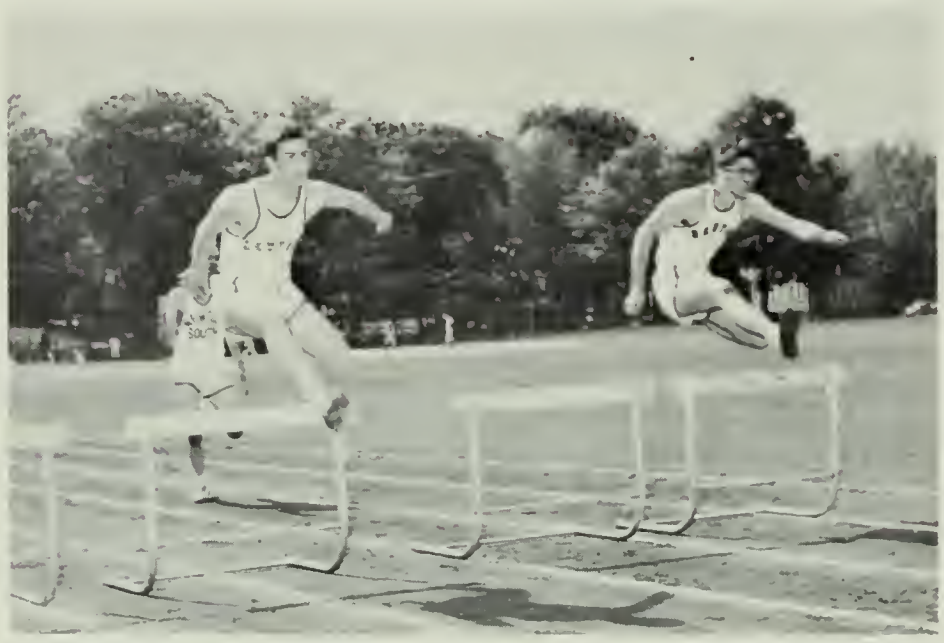

Newton can feel justly proud of its hockey players, and grateful to them too. As hundreds of cheering student fans can attest, the team's steadily spectacular performance brought the high school a renewed interest in athletics, a new "school spirit" which we know will continue for a long time in support of hockey and all other NHS sports.

OUTDOOR TRACK

Bolstered by the return of twenty lettermen and by the League Champion Indoor Track Team, this year's Outdoor Track Team, under Coaches Lamoine Boyle and Malcolm Gallagher, shows great potential of continuing its winning habit and becoming state champions. Captain Gerry Mazor and Dave McCann and their teammates eagerly await the beginning of the season. We know that our team will live up to their potential, and that, under the able direction of Coaches Boyle and Gallagher, the team will continue the standard of excellence at Newton High.

SPRING

"Everybody has two businesses—his own, and show business."

Eddie Cantor

These words hold true for the fifty-strong crew of Newton High School students who, although primarily engaged in the business of education, put on an elaborate production of "The King and I." This popular Rodgers and Hammerstein musical is the story of an English school teacher and her encounter with the "uncivilized" King of Siam. East meets West, and the two worlds learn to understand each other. The acting, dancing, orchestral accompanist, and costuming in the Newton High School production were all excellent and afforded delighted audiences two evenings of fine entertainmnt.

SENIOR

"Pray for peace and grace and spiritual food,
For wisdom and guidance, for all these are good,
But don't forget the potatoes."

J. T. Pettee

The Class of 1962 whooped up an unforgettable Senior Supper this year in the High School gymnasium. The supper, American Western in theme but quite modern in approach, began with a roast beef dinner (including potatoes, of course). Skits and dancing followed. A country caller led the Seniors in a traditional square dance which soon turned into a not-so-traditional "Twist."

Lynn Ware, chairman of the event, classified it as a "definite success, one that will be remembered happily by all." One reason for happy memories was the Court Room Skit. Wave Kallock, as judge, was unable to keep order in his court, and the Seniors participating in the skit wound up covered with whipped cream.

Members of the Newton High School Chapter of the National Honor Society knew "what to do" to make their year worthwhile both for themselves and for others. Under the enthusiastic guidance of Miss Rachel Johnson, members put their qualities of Scholarship, Service, Leadership, and Character to good use. During the warmer months, they carried out a diligent clean-up campaign in Newton's Edmund's Park. In February, they helped to collect money for the Heart Fund. The society, itself, gave contributions to the American Field Service and to Boston's Educational Channel Two. Members also volunteered themselves as readers for the blind.

Everyone is proud of these fine Newton High School citizens.

"A wise skepticism is the first attribute of a good critic."

James Russell Lowell

The skepticism was there. The good and constructive criticism was there also. Where? Tusitala of course! Under the direction of Mr. John Harris, the group met once a month, and worked to improve their writing by hearing it criticized and by evaluating the work of others. Given an honest (sometimes too honest) evaluation of their creative endeavors, members discovered their own weaknesses. The ten literary souls of Tusitala represented Newton High School's superior writing talent.

Mr. Rossi,
It's been fun working with you these few months and I look forward to a great book next year.
Thanks for all the help + assistance you have given me.
Sincerely,
Dennis Smith

REFLECTIONS

"A nation's poets are its true owners; and by the stroke of their pen they convey the title deeds of its real possession . . ."

George Woodberry

It is through the art and literature of a country that we come to know its people, and it is through Reflections that we come to know the thoughts of our fellow students. Since Newton High School deserves to be reflected at its creative best, the task of editing the literary magazine was an exacting one. This year's Reflections successfully preserved for us the creative spirit of Newton High School.

"A hand in things to come . . ."
Advertising slogan of Union Carbide

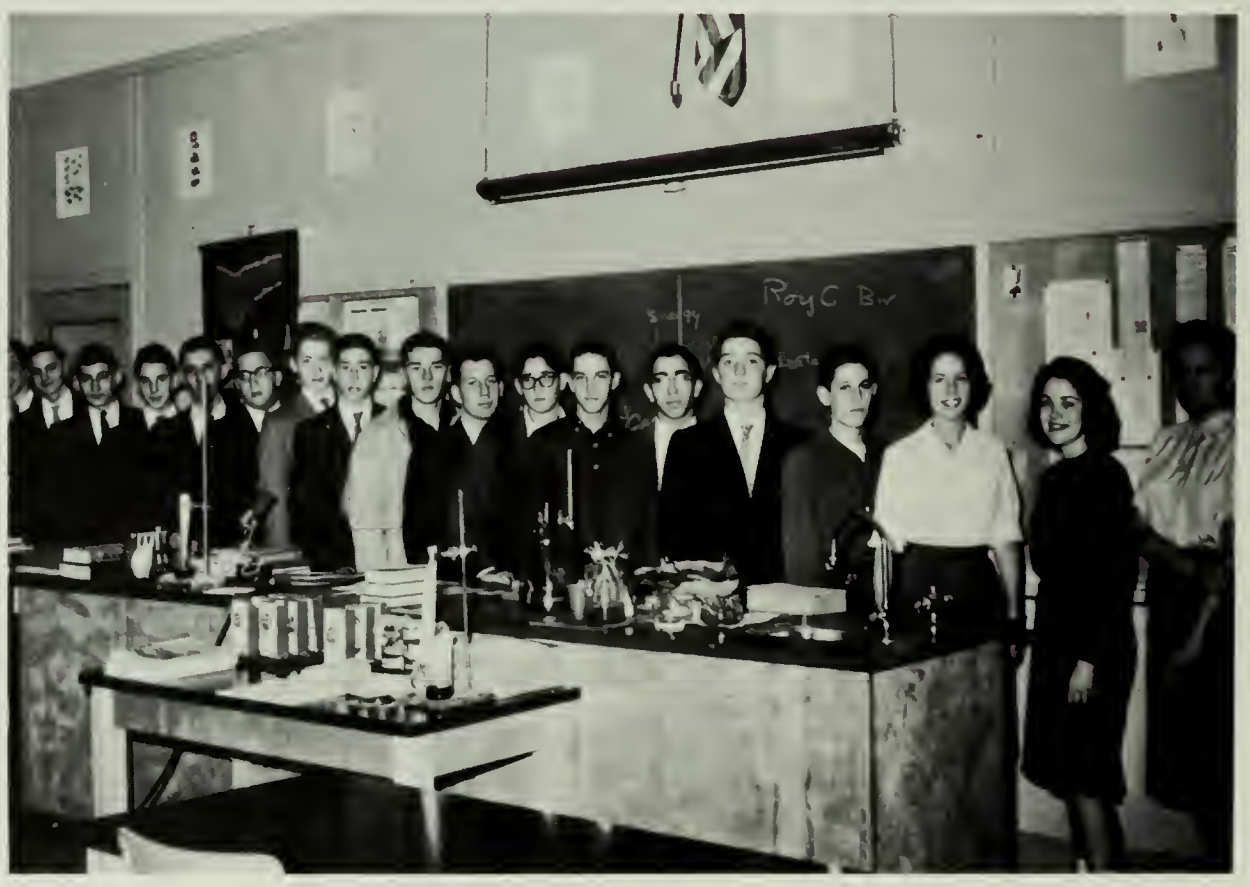

Science has always been an integral part of the American heritage. One of the framers of our Constitution, Benjamin Franklin, figured prominently in eighteenth century science. Today, men like Glen T. Seabourg reaffirm the importance of scientifically trained citizens to a free nation. The Chemistry Club was one means for the interested student to enrich his science program. This year, under the able direction of Messrs. J. C. Hall and Stuart Rist, the club explored new areas of chemistry through a series of experiments designed by the Association of Manufacturing Scientists.

INDEPENDENT RESEARCH GROUP

"How do I work? I grope."
Albert Einstein

The Independent Research Group, organized this year, offered the scientifically inclined student an opportunity to do some of this "groping" on his own. There were no compulsory meetings of the group, but the lab, under the supervision of Mrs. Bailey and Mr. Wells, was open to students during the week. At midyear the students were placed in nearby research centers to continue their projects on a more advance level. The club also sponsored the November Science Seminar in which local researchers graphically explained their work to interested Newton students.

We doubt that the group's "groping" in the scientific world will produce anything as momentous as Einstein's theory of relativity, but we are certain that in the future many of these students will make substantial contributions to science.

"This is indeed The Year Atom Bomb One."
Harold Clayton Urey

Now in the Year Atom Bomb Seventeen, we live in a cultural and social milieu in which science is king. In the last seventeen years science has carried us along at breakneck speed, on the one hand, advancing the cause of humanity, and, on the other, bringing the threat of total annilhilation closer.

The Physics Club, supplementing the school's regular science and humanities programs, has helped to educate tomorrow's physicists for sane progress. The club conducted a varied program of lectures and field trips. Dr. Rohsenow of MIT and other prominent physicists addressed the group. The students also visited many local research centers and universities where history is being made every day.

"That mathematical, geographical son-of-a-gun Columbo."
Traditional ballad, "Christopher Columbo"

Throughout American history, mathematics has always been lurking somewhere in the background. Mathematics, of course, played a vital role in the discovery and charting of our country. Times, however, have changed greatly. Today mathematics is helping to discover and chart trackless reaches of outer space and the new worlds within the atom.

This year Alpha Gamma Tau centered around a series of math competitions with other schools. Guest speakers and student-planned programs helped to prepare the mathematically inclined club members for the discovery ahead.

"Lafayette we are here."
Charles Stanton

From the days of the Revolution, France has been closely allied with the United States. In our infancy she helped us to stand alone. In the first and second World Wars, we once again joined forces. Today, in the midst of the cold war, it has become increasingly necessary that we stand together. Indeed, with her great contributions to literature, science, and the fine arts, France deserves more than political recognition. In the French Club this year, informal conversations, films, and song fests enriched the students' knowledge of French culture. The French Oratorical contest, held in the spring, generated a genuine interest in the language throughout the high school.

And so we say, "Vive la France!"

SPANISH CLUB

"Remember the Maine!"
Slogan, Spanish-American War

"Remember the Maine!" began the admonition to Spanish Club members at their first meeting. "Remember the Main objectives of the Spanish Club are to give students the chance to converse in Spanish, and to expand their understanding of the Spanish and Latin-American cultures." Remembering these objectives, the Spanish Club had a highly successful and encouraging year.

Slides, films, guest speakers, and a Christmas costume party highlighted the year's cultural appreciation activities. Gifts for Puerto Ricans in Sudbury at Christmas, and a book drive for a school in Costa Rica were the major service projects performed by the club. Although some students may have forgotten when to use the subjunctive at the meetings, everyone will remember the Main result was a successful year of service, learning and enjoyment for all.

LATIN CLUB

"Ecce . . . Winnie Ille Pu."
A. A. Milne
(Translator: Alexander Lenard)

Winnie Ille Pu, by A. A. Milne, translated by Alexander Lenard, is one of the most recent revivals of Latin in this country. Originally a child's story, Winnie the Poo, in its Latin translation, attracted as many adults as the English version did children. The Latin Club, like Mr. Lenard, attempted this year to arouse more than just an educator's interest in Latin. Among other activities, there were skits (in Latin!) and colorful slides of Italy. Thirty dedicated members met monthly to wag their Roman tongues and keep the dust off Horace and Virgil.

"The phraseology of every nation has a taint of drollery about it to the ears of every nation speaking a different tongue."
Edgar Allen Poe

The Russian Club sought to "become familiar with and enjoy Russian culture" through Russian music, literature and cuisine. This year the club sponsored a unique Russian cookie sale, and in December, a "vyecherenka" (evening party). Russian Club members learned to nod knowingly at Khrushchev's lengthy "messages" to his own people, at Radio Moscow's mumbled "messages" to the West and at Gromyko's violent "messages" to the U.N. The members also understood, of course, the words of their advisor, Mrs. Linton-Smith, who left in mid-year after three years at Newton High, and to whom the Russian students express sincere and warm appreciation.

NEWTONITE

"Absolute freedom of the press to discuss public questions is a foundation stone of American liberty."

Herbert Hoover

The Newtonite this year opened its pages to the coverage of all that affected us, not only as students, but also as citizens. With the continuation of the "Forum" column the paper indeed fulfilled its basic purpose: "to report school events, to publish student opinion, and to serve as a record." Non-staff members submitted to the "Forum" letters on civil defense, fluoridation, fallout shelters, and our own cafeteria problem. The "Fact Sheet," introduced for the first time last fall, also brought together non-staff members to write on controversial topics. These two innovations, "Forum" and "Fact Sheet," added a new dimension to NHS journalism and made the Newtonite an example of the responsible, outspoken, vigorous American free press.

Robert Frost

Although we couldn't see him, we knew for sure that he must have been a member of the Newtonite Circulation or Advertisingt Saffs, diligent workers around the school who created little or no disturbances but left telltale marks behind them. The Ad Staff did its work behind the scenes, gathering advertisements for each issue of the Newtonite and thus enabling the paper to exist financially.

Likewise, the Circulation Staff rarely attracted attention. Its thunder came quickly and briskly at the

NEWTONIAN

"A year . . . is a journey along a paper calendar."
Henry Beston

And here is our paper calendar record of 1961 to 1962—the Newtonian—written with a lot of headaches, many loud arguments and a great deal of enjoyment. Thanks to you, Mr. Rossi, there was a yearbook this year; how many times you wondered if there ever would be one!

Now it is time for us to depart, to become another chapter in the history of Newton High School. We leave this Newtonian, a record of all our days and deeds, with the hope that you will enjoy reading it as much as we have enjoyed writing it.

"If ever the U.S. should reach a point where the clash of ideas comes to an end, where debate disappears . . . then we are finished as a nation."

John F. Kennedy

Thus, the twenty-five members of the Debating Society participated in an activity basic to our democratic society. They exercised their freedom of speech in inter-school debates, in tournaments, and in their monthly meetings (where a motion to adjourn was once argued for ten minutes). In January, the club took part in a Dartmouth University High School Tournament where one team received an award for superior debating. Newton High teams also won debates with Newton South, Waltham, Bedford, Wellesley, and Brookline high schools. A heavy snow fall did not prevent members from attending the Winnecunnet, N. H. tournament; and when they got a flat tire on the ride home, they debated the merits of self-sealing rubber. Newton High was also represented at the Lynnfield Tournament (where our teams won 7 out of 8 debates) and at the University of N. H. Tournament. In April, five club members attended the Model UN in N. J.

Throughout the year, the club debated the pros and cons of federal aid to education, the National High School topic. If you heard strange noises after school, it was probably a dedicated debater pounding the rostrum to make a point (Suggestion to next year's debaters: don't lean too hard on the rostrum . . .).

DRAMA CLUB

"The play left a taste of lukewarm parsnip juice."

Alexander Woolcott

Alexander Woolcott's well-known, biting comment could perhaps have been uttered by the members of the Drama Club after one of their pilgrimages to the Charles Street Playhouse this past year. More likely, however, the comments were a bit more complicated than Woolcott's, for the Drama Club members have learned to analyze plays with a combination of both criticisms and compliments. And, in their eagerness to do more than criticize and praise, the members have also made a study of the history of drama, and of modern acting techniques, current plays and playwrights. With this year's emphasis on the modern, Marlowe and Shakespeare were laid aside in favor of Miller, Shaw and company, giving the students a chance to see and discuss the plays in addition to reading them. The past was not forgotten by the Drama Club this year, it was simply left undisturbed.

SENIOR PLAY

"If you're there before it's over, you're on time."

James Walker

If you made it to the Senior Play before it was over, you were on time to see highlights of one of the most humorous and sagacious pieces of situation comedy ever presented in Newton High School. Precision acting, in which every actor practically lived his part, put forth a remarkable evening of entertainment. If you saw the whole play, you will never forget the cast's enthusiastic performances.

DRAMA

"The Greatest Show on Earth."
P. T. Barnum

Despite a surprise snow-storm, Newton's ninth annual Drama Festival managed to get started—and only half an hour late. But the two thousand hearty souls who braved the blizzard found the performances ample reward for their soggy shoes and snow-bound cars.

The program began with Louise Saunders' delightful fantsy The Knave of Hearts. From beginning to end, the play was wonderfully funny. We even noticed the South High students laughing!

After a brief intermission the program continued with South High's presentation of Marcelle Maurette's Anastasia. The play was greeted with yells from the Southerners. Yankees shifted nervously in their seats, but once the play was underway we were forced to forget our scorn for those "young rebels." It was a truly stirring performance. Though we hate to admit it, even some Yankee eyes were damp when the curtains closed.

FESTIVAL

The final play, Barbara Pecker's Patrick Bronte and the Saint, was greeted by enthusiastic cheers, this time from the Yankees. The yells were not unmerited. The audience was treated to an outstanding performanc—outstanding in interpretation, casting, direction, scene design and characterization. (It should be noted that the author is not in any way biased.) We will never forget the movable clouds that squeaked only slightly as they were drawn across the stage.

Impatiently awaiting the judges' decision, the Yankees eyed their Southern opposition suspiciously. In a short while their suspicions were confirmed: Anastasia was declared the winner. However, no Northerner felt he could really begrudge the rebels their prize, and a great pleasure to everyone were the eight awards for outstanding acting, presented to: Jay Theise, Vicki Opper, Franklin Levy, Mirelle Resnick, Barbara Goodbar, Priscilla Kanter, Bill Krinsky and Jeff Hahn. Having thoroughly enjoyed the whole evening, Yankees and Confederates made a truce and trudged home through the snow.

"I hear America singing . . ."
Walt Whitman

The world of music is being explored constantly. Part of our history rests in our music, for the study of American music is the study of American customs. Van Cliburn, Armstrong—we are a singing and listening people. This year, on the last Thursday of every month, the Music Club has presented programs in which all students could participate. Not only were all those who loved music able to attend, but also all those interested in establishing such an interest. The following is a list of all those students of American custom.

The fifty-five members of the Mixed Chorus assembled twice a week to learn four-part harmony and to study choral literature. They displayed their talent and knowledge of music in the Christmas Assembly and in the Spring Musical, "The King and I." Members of the Mixed Chorus gained vocal and stage experience while Newton High School enjoyed listening to them.

GIRLS' CHORUS

The 135 members of the Girls' Chorus met twice a week to learn the techniques of singing in a large group and to experiment with different types of vocal music. They sang at the Christmas Assembly and performed with the other musical organizations at "Music Night." With so many girls sharing an interest in singing, each meeting was an informal version of a gala performance.

Song is a part of America: the blacksmith at his forge, the railroad laborer at his work, the cotton picker in the fields, the sailor on the decks, the cowboy on the prairie, and we, all sing "Happy Birthday" and play opera in the shower. History has provided the school's musical organizations with much material. "Yankee Doodle," "Dixie," "I've Been Working on the Railroad," and 'Over There" have all appeared in A Capella's repertoires.

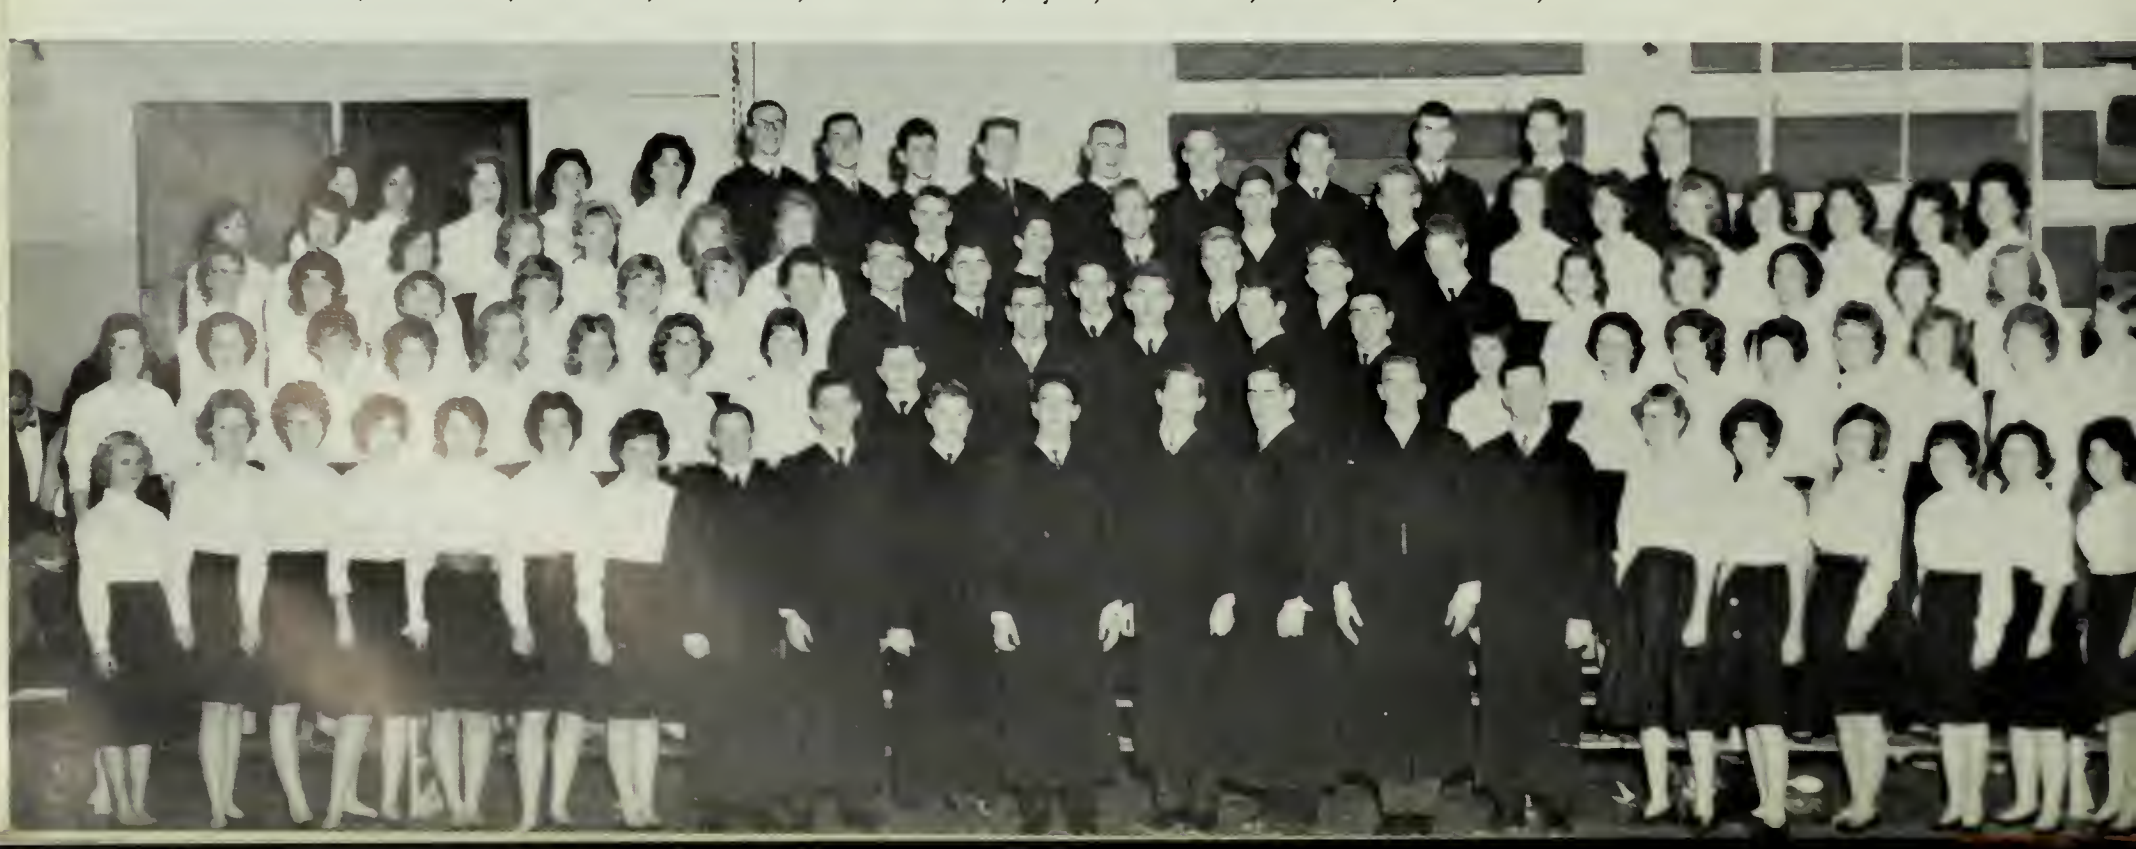

The 110 members of the choir worked especially hard this year and pioneered a new system of regularly scheduled after-school rehearsals. One of the high points of the year came when A Capella joined with the Boston Youth Symphony. With skilled leadership, effort, and enthusiasm A Capella gave many fine performances this year.

MARCHING BAND

During the football season, the Marching Band went out in full force to arouse school spirit. Meeting three times a week for practice, the fifty-five members showed a wonderful loyalty and enthusiasm for Newton High. In many other ways such as playing for rallies, motorcades, school assemblies, and other Newton schools, the Marching Band made a tuneful contribution to school activities.

ORCHESTRA

The forty persevering musicians in the Newton High School orchestra dedicated much of their time and effort to practice. Under the direction of Mr. March, the orchestra performed for the Music Club and at the Senior Play. Six of its most talented members were sent to the Northeast District Concert in Marblehead. The orchestra also gave concerts at elementary schools where future sophomorse, juniors, and seniors got a glimpse of culture on the high school level.

MADRIGALS

The Newton High Madrigal Singers, a hand-picked, sixteen-member ensemble under the devoted leadership of Miss Geraldine Seaver, provided music for house assemblies, performed in many of Newton's junior high schools, and participated in City Hall ceremonies on Veterans Day. This unusual group truly represented Newton High artistic skill and esprit de corps.

ALL-STATE ORCHESTRA

Judy Dietz, Diane Currins, James Bilezekian, Tina Currins.

ALL-STATE CHORUS

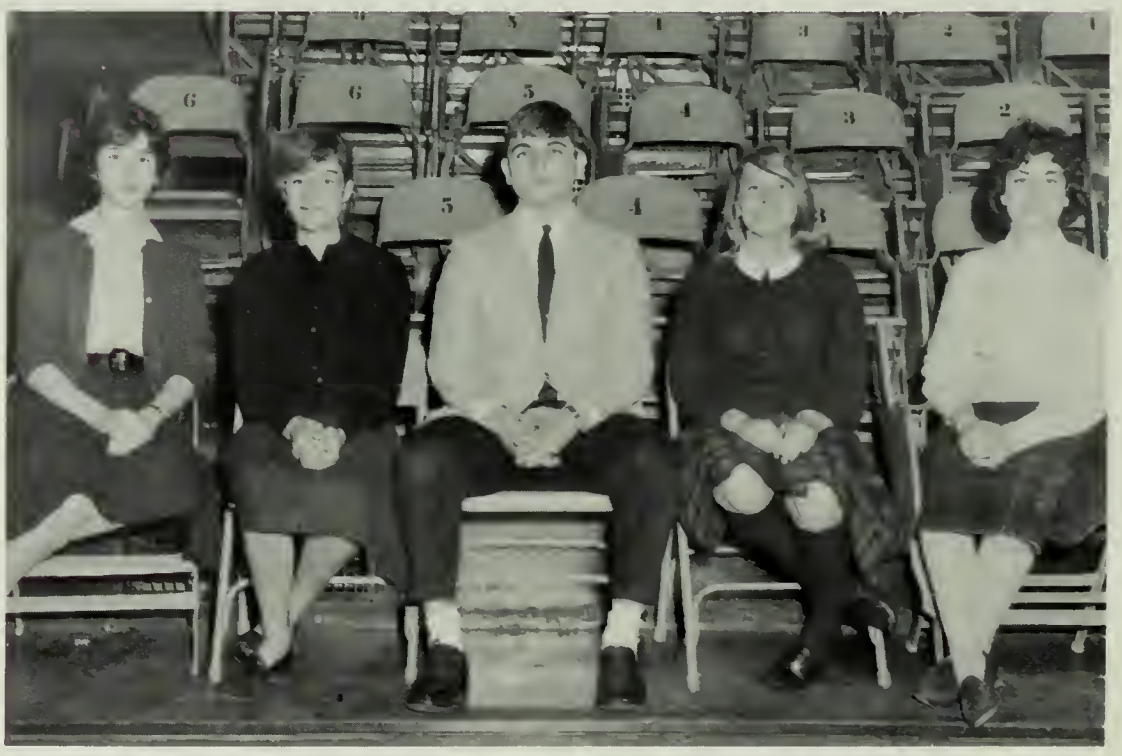

William Mark

CONCERT BAND

If you ever found yourself promenading down the corridor in the cellar of Building II, you were bound to hear strains of enchanting music! The source of the tunes was the Concert Band, directed by Mr. David Brayton. The forty band members played a wide variety of musical selections: show tunes, overtures, waltzes, marches, popular and classical pieces.

Incidentally, Newton High is very proud of a new addition—the All City Concert Band, composed of students from NHS, Newton South, and junior highs. The music department has high hopes for the performance of this group.

YOUTH SYMPHONY

Gill Rogell, Diane Currins, James Bilezekian, Tina Currins, Judy Dietz.

TIGERAMA

First Row: Mrs. Geiger, Sunny Gratto, Dave Kallock. Second Row: Sherry Loockner, Tina Currins.

"Revolutions are not made by men in spectacles."

Oliver Wendell Holmes

History is full of revolutions. This year Newton had its own revolution. The established and venerated institution of Tigerama succumbed to the New Movement, the Twist. At Twisterama, America's spirit of competition was exemplified in the enthusiastic Twist Contest. This same spirit was evident in the Tigerama Motorcade, held in September. The owner of the most originally decorated car received a prize greatly cherished by all auto owners—twenty-five gallons of gas.

STAGE CREW

"You ain't heard nothing yet, folks."

Al Jolson

And the chances are even if you were a frequent visitor at the NHS auditorium you never heard, saw, or appreciated the extent of the stage crew's work. Yet, behind the scenes, there was always someone fussing with a rope, a light, or a curtain. During every performance unsung heroes operated the necessary audio and lighting equipment. Such a group did a most important job at NHS and deserves our appreciation.

HOMEROOM MANAGERS

"I shall return."
General Douglas MacArthur

The greatest selling squad in NHS was instructed to repeat these famous words to all prospective buyers who forget their money. The Homeroom Managers served the whole school by selling such annual items as the Student Activities Ticket and the Yearbook. Unlike many school organizations, created only when they are needed, the Homeroom Managers are an institution whose sacred phrase, "I shall return," is shouted by loyal students year after year.

Seated: Pam Gordon, Pamela J. Powers, Sid Bliss, Paula Salow, Larry Kemelgor, Elaine Henry, Nancy Greenman, Andy Hyde, Winnie Myers. Standing: Arden Rose, Judi Baden, Janet Merrill, Sherry Stadtman, Richard Kimball, Linda Klein, Paul Piccirillo, Henry Fradkin, Eddie Cotton, Jackie Grant.

". . . this little book is less a primer than a key . . ."
Rupert Hughes

Scene: A lost corridor in the east wing of Building Two.

Cast: One bewildered Sophomore.

Props: Orange Book.

Script: Where's the elevator? I'll never make it to my next class. I just bought a whole book of tickets from that nice Senior. What? Nothing here? Well, if it isn't in the Orange Book it doesn't exist. I'd better look for a staircase.

Exit Sophomore

If it isn't in the Orange Book is doesn't exist. This invaluable guide book has shown many bewildered Sophomores. (Juniors and Seniors, too) the way to the phone, gym, and 1442. In its new expanded form, the Orange Book was sent to every student free of charge.

ORANGE SHIELD

"In order to . . . insure domestic tranquility."

U. S. Constitution

Keeping order in the cafeteria, where students seemed to lose all their inhibitions, may not have been quite as grave a problem as ordering a new nation was for the Founding Fathers. But it was almost so, maintains the Orange Shield. This squad of 107 civic-minded students patroled the cafeteria during all the lunch periods and insured our domestic neatness, cleanliness, and tranquility.

CENTRAL CIVICS COMMISSION

"A good many things go around in the dark besides Santa Claus."

Herbert Hoover

Who was that strange student sniffing around the halls and behind closed doors? Did the silent snooper surprise you as he stealthily strode from a secret shadow in the spooky tunnels? Well, the mystery is solved. No, he wasn't an FBI man or a visitor from Mars. He was a specially selected sober searcher for the Civics Commission which, like the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, contributed to another year of radioactive dust control; its battle for a cigarette smokeless school may yet be won!

Seated: Paul Roberts, Danny Goldstein, Jeff Shane, Bob Alter. Standing: Mr. Gradone, Karen Stone, Gerry Angoff, Karen Manners, Gordon Allen, Sara Klein.

LIBRARY ASSISTANTS

"The love of learning, the sequestered nooks, and the sweet serenity of books."

Henry W. Longfellow

The twenty-eight volunteers who relinquished study periods in order to work in the library performed an invaluable service to the school. These volunteers sorted and replaced books on the (hopefully!) proper shelves, and, after finishing their exacting task, were free to disarrange their own handiwork by browsing through the library. Has anyone seen G S 66.2?

"We have heard enough of liberty and the rights of men. It is high time to hear something of the duties of men . . ."

Orestes Bronson

The house plan greatly simplified student life, but in so doing it threatened to overwork the secretarial staff. Fortunately some students were not complacent; they spent their free time collecting attendance slips, answering phone calls, and thus helping to make the house plan work.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

"There must be pioneers . . ."
Charles Lindbergh

The sophomores this year have been our Newton High pioneers, energetic, enthusiastic and imaginative. Their first project was the redecoration of our cafteria, and their demand for action resulted in a new coat of fresh blue and white paint for the walls. To celebrate their success as wall painters, the sophomores held a way-out ball, a "Beatnik Twist", featuring pizza, espresso and the Ramrods musical combo. It is this enthusiastic imagination, coupled with what seems to be a general high interest in learning and an awareness of world problems, that prompts us to say, "Man, like this class is going places."

Mrs. Joan W. Woffard

JUNIOR CLASS

Mr. Spencer C. MacDonald
Adviser

"A memorable social contribution, noble in motive and far reaching in purpose . . ."

Herbert Hoover

Under the dynamic leadership of Mr. Spencer MacDonald, the Class of 1963 made a "memorable social contribution" in the form of another Junior Work Day. The students' enthusiasm and hard work brought substantial profits which were donated toward the support of orphans at the New England for Little Wanderers.

The Class also sponsored a successful Junior Prom and, following in the footsteps of countless other juniors, chose a class ring.

MOTION PICTURE SQUAD

Mr. Satlak, Leonard Klein, Peter Bloom, David Kraopkonis, Stu Books. Missing: Paul Epstein.

"Some simple apparatus employing the eye, more than the ear, will be found . . ."
Horace Mann

Crunch . . . grind . . . ten, nine, eight, seven . . . "perfect, perfect, may I have the scotch tape . . . ?" The Motion Picture Squad served as a two-fold purpose; it acted not only as a service organization, but also as a club, and welcomed anyone interested in learning how to operate motion picture equipment. Members selflessly abused their feet running from Newton Plan lectures, to history classes, to music classes, to gym, to the P.T.S.A., to various city organizations, showing films and film strips.

"It is altogether fitting and proper" that Edison's fellow Americans should have suffered so with the whims and caprices of his invention.

ADMINISTRATIVE AIDS

"The difficult we do immediately. The impossible takes a little longer."
Slogan, U. S. Army Corps Engineers

It's difficult to keep the cafeteria clean, even more difficult to keep order in the tunnels (especially on dark, stormy days whn the lights fail), and it's nearly impossible to prevent some students from smoking in school. Yet members of the Administrative Aids, like members of the Army Corps of Engineers, were determined to do both the difficult and the impossible. The selected Tech High students who composed the AA dedicatedly patrolled the school, sporting their fancy decals decorated with symbols representing the nine shops of Tech High.

ASSOCIATES COUNCIL

"We the people . . . in order to form a more perfect union . . ."

U. S. Constitution

"We, the students of Newton High School"* completed another successful year of self-rule through the efforts of our Student Government. Our President, like Jackson, Lincoln, Wilson, and the Roosevelts, proved an advocate of the Strong Executive. In September, Richard Salter came quite close to exercising powers of the "commander-in-chief" but the "imminent danger" facing the school was speedily neutralized.

Much like the U.S. Congress, the Associates Council debated important issues and kept the American people—more specifically Newton High seniors—informed of the perils facing them in the future—more specifically the facts about colleges not printed in the official catalogs. We refer, of course, to the welcome innovation of informal group meetings between seniors and Newton alumni attending college.

The Associates administered our own Newton Foreign Aid through the Foster Children Program, an experience which reflected the true meaning of people helping people.

The Library of Congress, national stimulus to American creativity, found a counterpart in our own hard-working Arts Commission; and Bell's Bureau of the Budget met its match in the dexterous monetary manipulations of the Newton High Finance Commission. The Activities Commission, like JFK's corps of special assistants, kept the calendar unclogged and promoted smooth administration.

The moral to these comparisons is, in truth, a very serious one. America's schools have traditionally served as training grounds for citizenship. Thomas Jefferson wrote that they "would help in the diffusion of knowledge" and, thereby, promote intelligent citizenship. Newton High School's Student Government played a valuable part in training good citizens by offering us "practical knowledge of democracy."*

"Democracy is the most demanding of all forms of government in terms of the energy, imagination and public spirit required of the individual."

George C. Marshall

Just as America takes pride in her public-spirited citizens who answer to a call of need, Newton High is grateful to the thirty executive board members of the Rally Committee and its one hundred workers, who responded to the call for school spirit. The Rally Committee had a unique recipe for brewing an active school spirit.

Required ingredients: A concern for NHS' athletic reputation, some enthusiasm, and strong lungs.

Directions: 1) Sprinkle ingredients lavishly among the Rally Committee members 2) Assemble twice a month to plan the rallies and half-time activities 3) Seat these lively students in a cheering section 4) Heat the student body to the temperature of a high fervor.

Desired result: A football stadium filled with school spirit.

"In America, the President reigns for four years, and journalism governs forever and ever."

Oscar Wilde

"Journalism governs forever and ever," but who governs journalism? The Newton High School Publications Board, of course. This board, composed of five tactful students and five equally tactful teachers, had the difficult and touchy task of selecting an editor and business manager for this (superb) yearbook, selecting an editor for the Orange Book, and diplomatically making criticisms and comments on all school publications. (We wonder what they'll think of this write-up . . .).

ELECTION COMMITTEE

"As long as I count the votes, what are you going to do about it?"

William M. Tweed

Chances are you don't want to do anything about it because the Election Committee did such a splendid job this year in promoting the democratic process at Newton High. The committee was composed of two representatives from each house and Tech High. It ran all school elections; arranged assemblies where candidates spoke; saw to it that all campaigns were fairly conducted; printed, passed out, collected, and counted ballots; and even mimeographed and distributed fifty-word statements from each of the eager office-seekers. Don't be surprised if next year some of thes hard-working committee members are shouting political speeches themselves!

". . . the variety of expression which will sustain our American faith."
John F. Kennedy

The President's words have often been reflected in the actions of his wife, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, patron of the arts. Were Mrs. Kennedy to have visited Newton, she would have undoubtedly been delighted with Orchesis, the Newton High dance group. The twenty-one girls in the organization, working in both classical ballet and modern dance forms, were interested in expression through movement. The more advanced dancers also experimented with choreography. Orchesis staunchly supported Mrs. Kennedy's firm belief in individualism and self-expression.

AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE

"We have learned to be citizens of the world, members of the human community."
Franklin Delano Roosevelt

FDR spoke these words after the Second World War when we in the U.S. were just beginning to realize that in the Twentieth Century we are members of a world-wide human community, not just of an isolated nation. The American Field Service, a high school exchange program, is trying to improve world peace and understanding on a personal level by bringing foreign students to live and study in America by sending American students abroad.

This year's foreign students at Newton High School were Khalida Matin from Pakistan and Kurt Rangstrup from Denmark. Living with Newton families and studying at the high school, Kurt and Khalida learned our American ways, culture, ideals, and goals and taught us, in turn, about their countries and culture.

INTERNATIONAL CLUB

"Peace, commerce and honest friendship with all."

Thomas Jefferson

If Khrushchev rattles his missiles, a new African nation revolts, or a Portuguese pirate steals a ship, you can be certain the people who get most excited will be the members of the International Club. This alert group of world-minded N.H.S. citizens met once a month to discuss global problems, or to view films and listen to speakers from other lands, such as November's visitor from Ghana.

The high point of the International Club year was the Model United Nations held in Montclair, New Jersey. Nine members of the club represented the delegation from Ghana in an exciting three days of heated discussion and debate.

"I got a million of 'em!"
Jimmy Durante

Although they could not quite echo Jimmy Durante's words, members of the Stamp Club had a very successful year. They discussed their hobby and displayed, among themselves, the contents of their private stamp collections. The club also promoted the ideal of a well-informed citizen. Since each nation has its own approach in designing stamps, stamps reflect the customs, geography, history, and propaganda of respective countries. By studying a nation's stamps, club members acquired an insight into the nations themselves. Among the club's other activities was a tour of a U.S. Post Office and lectures by several guest speakers.

FOLK SINGING CLUB

". . . There always, always something sings."
Ralph Waldo Emerson

Better watch out for old Clementine. She'll be coming round the mountain at 90 m.p.h. when she learns she's missed a chance to join the Newton High Folk Singing Club, newly formed this year. Under the leadership of students and guest artists, the club met in various commons rooms. It often seemed as though every folksinger had answered the call in the bulletin—every folksinger, that is, but Pete Seeger and John Baez. Even these celebrities would have enjoyed the meetings where everyone sang "John Henry" and "Michael Row the Boat Ashore," whether they knew how to or not. Folksinging is a part of our heritage, and we hope that students will continue to practice their guitars or banjos and become members of the Folk Singing Club.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

"A teacher affects eternity . . ."
Henry Adams

Thirty Newton High students actively manifested their interest in elementary and secondary education through the Future Teachers of America Club. Experienced teachers such as Beals' Housemaster, Richard Adams, addressed the group. The students visited local elementary schools where they glimpsed the trials and rewards awaiting them in the future. They also heard college representatives outline the specialized education courses offered in many universities.

There is only one Horace Mann or James Conant in American history, but if Newton's Future Teachers Club encouraged even one student to enter the profession, it was quite enough. Any good educator "affects eternity."

TUTORIALS

"So I say, yes, there are new frontiers, new frontiers here . . ."
Richard Nixon

A little bit of the Square came to NHS this year when volunteer Harvard-style Tutorials were organized by Beals' Housemaster, Richard Adams, Messrs. Hollman, Martin, Jacobs, and our principal, Mr. Mechem.

One group took "Man and Society" for its theme and digested some Salinger, Eliot, Plato, and Huxley. A second Tutorial read poetry.

Perhaps it was the Peace Corps' experiment that prompted a third group to read "The Ugly American," "The Ambassadors," and other books reflecting the problems of Americans abroad.

Mr. Mechem, speaking of his group's activities, said that American sociological, economic and historical problems had been considered in a "philosophical perspective". These words give us hope for the potential dimensions of all Newton High education. Indeed, the Tutorials developed, literary taste, improved faculty-student relations, and established the principle that serious thought about American problems and politics is within the capacity of Newton High School students.

"Don't give up the ship!"
Captain James Lawrence

"Don't give up the ship!" . . . Even when you don't have one! With this idea in mind, the forty members of the Sailing Club waited out the snowy winter months in busy activity. True to the democratic tradition, they organized into groups in which those who knew how to sail taught those who wanted to learn. Even so, thoughts often turned to the quiet solitude of a softly ruffled sea, the rhythmic swaying of a sailboat. Finally, after the long months of planning, studying, and hoping, the enthusiastic sailors got their ships. On the first breezy day in spring, they hoisted sails and plunged into the world of wind and wave.

RADIO CLUB

"For messages I use Western Union."
Howard Goldstein

Had a member of the NHS Radio Club been in Boston in 1775, Paul Revere would probably have remained an obscure silversmith with no need to make any midnight ride, and Longfellow would have written a poem to the midnight Radio Ham who sounded the alarm. However, aside from the fact that the club failed to sound any alarms even in 1962, it did make use of the airwaves. The call of the wireless was generally wild. No set rules or regular broadcasting hours dampened the hams' ardor, and signals went out to Europe, Africa, and even the Pacific.

Phil Gilman, Chauncey Chu, Dan O'Brien, Tom Whitehouse, Mr. Cionti.

GIRLS' LEADERS CORPS

"Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion."
Palmolive Soap Motto

As members of the Leader Corps, Newton High School girls had the opportunity both to get rosy cheeks and to do a service for their school. They helped gym teachers by taking attendance and leading their fellow classmates in vigorous sports and exercises. They also collected, checked, and accounted for the condition of equipment at the end of each class. Dressed in white blouses and shorts, these girls personified efficiency and the healthy American schoolgirl.

"After you have exhausted what there is in business, politics, conviviality, and so on —have found that none finally satisfy, or permanently wear—what remains?"
Walt Whitman

Why do people play games? Why, in particular, did the members of the Chess Club spend so many hours in the walled-off section of the cafeteria or in tournaments with other schools maneuvering little oddly shaped figures around a square board we know so well should be used only for checkers? Maybe they were trying to destroy the checker industry. Perhaps they had nothing better to do, or perhaps they were seeking a world more ordered than our own . . .

"Done with indoor complaints, libraries, querulous criticisms, strong and content I travel the open road."

Walt Whitman

Though Walt Whitman wrote at the turn of the century, he seems to have captured the spirit of the thirty-seven girls in Newton High's Outing Club. This club did not exist to broaden the student intellectually; it was just for fun. Through a series of well-planned outings, the girls temporarily abandoned the pressures of academic life to hearken to President Kennedy's cry for physical fitness. The highlight of the year's program was a very successful ski trip to Peterborough, New Hampshire. The girls also went swimming, horseback riding, mountain climbing and canoeing.

ASTRONOMY CLUB

"Beautiful dreamer, wake unto me,
Starlight and dewdrop are waiting for thee."

Stephen Foster

It's night. He stops the car facing the full moon. The girl at his side is bathed in soft, golden moonlight. He looks questioningly into her eyes. She nods, and he reaches out his hand to grasp . . . the telescope. This is a typical night out for the members of the Newton High School Astronomy Club. Participants in this serious society of starry-eyed astronomers occasionally took off enough time to turn their gaze from the heavens to books about the solar system. And what a blast they had in the moonlight to celebrate America's first orbiting of an astronaut! Why the stars almost fell out of their sockets . . .

CADUCEANS

"It is not surgery that kills people; it is delayed surgery."

Dr. William Mayo

The other day, nervously preparing for a test, I accidentally sharpened my finger instead of a pencil. With a shriek of agony I ran to the nearest member of the Caduceans Club, who pulled me into a room filled with kindly, smiling faces which looked on sympathetically as my finger was smothered in a gauzy bandage. This compassionate donation of free medical treatment was only one of the Caduceans' many activities, which this year included visiting hospitals and nursing homes, viewing films, and hearing lectures on many different facets of the medical profession. In our dedicated Newton High School Caduceans we see a promising future for American Medicine.

"The world is a fine place . . ."

Ernest Hemingway

By serving their school and community, members of the Newton High School Key Club developed a strong sense of civic-mindedness. The club was open to high school boys and was sponsored by the school in cooperation with the Newton Kiwanis Club. Among its many activities were the distribution of Christmas baskets to needy families and the preparation of a gay Christmas party for children who would not have had one otherwise. Thus club members experienced the satisfaction that came with working together and helping others.

TIGER

"Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm."
Ralph Waldo Emerson

During our three years at NHS we heard much about school spirit. The pros and cons and hows and whys were examined and re-examined in the Newtonite. But, as Emerson asserts, the key to the matter is enthusiasm. The awesome task of generating enthusiasm at NHS this year rested largely on the shoulders of David Kallock, our Tiger. We think he succeeded. The picture of Dave, head in hand, jumping up and down on the Elm Road balcony of Building III, leading "Stand up and Cheer for Newton Men!" has been indelibly imprinted on our minds.

Dave "Tiger" Kallock

AMERICAN FIELD SERVICE

Two American Field Service fund-raising assemblies, held in February, included interviews with exchange students, and folksinging provided by a group of Newton High School guitarists. The goal: to raise enough money to bring two foreign students to NHS in 1962-63, and to send NHS students abroad.

The weekend of November 10-12, fifty foreign students staying with families in Massachusetts converged on Newton to visit with Newton students anxious to meet contemporaries from all over the world. Everyone followed a tight schedule of fun and education. Friday night, a square dance was held at Newton South High. Saturday, sightseeing was the order of the day. A supper party ended the festivities; and the guests left, tired but happy, all having made a valuable investment in world friendship.

The Newton High School AFS group sponsored two visiting days, bringing AFS'ers from metropolitan Boston to spend a day in Newton. During the day, they attended classes; in the evening, they joined American students in a dinner followed by a theatre trip.

Our exchange students: Jung Ja Choi, Korea; Kurt Rangstrup, Denmark; Khalida Matin, Pakistan.

"I enjoy life because I am endlessly interested in people and their growth."

Pearl Buck

The American Junior Red Cross Council taught Newton High students to focus their attention on others. The twenty members of the Council spent their spare time in numerous community projects. They compiled a "Fun Book" and donated it to the Crippled Children's Hospital. They also conducted a delightful Sunday Coffee Hour at a Veterans Hospital. At the request of the League of Red Cross Societies, club members outfitted in American dress a doll to be exhibited in the Far East. These civic-minded students also took charge of the blood mobile canteen and arranged transportation for the donors. Newton High School is concerned with and interested in these people who, themselves, were concerned with and "interested in people and their growth."

SKI CLUB

"Dread fifty above more than fifty below."

Robert Frost

Robert Frost has cerated a most appropriate phrase to describe the members of the Ski Club. First, the club was so popular that in arranging trips, the planners dreaded fifty above more than fifty below the maximum number of skiers which they could accommodate. After anxiously awaiting a trip for several days, the members certainly had grounds to dread fifty above more than fifty below on the thermometer, hoping for cold weather to bring plenty of snow. When coarse and down right suicidal slopes were tackled by the upright but innocent skiers, it is easy to see why the adviser, Mr. Rist, also dreaded fifty above more than fifty below, but as long as the fifty who came remained fifty to go, every ski trip was great fun and exercise for all Newton High Ski Club members.

NEW ENGLAND TELEPHONE

If money be the root of all evil, the 1962 Newtonian is proud to present the two most evil members of the advertising staff, Gail Eagerman, and Kenneth Kudisch.

Timid, curious, frightened faces,
Hands clutching tan brief cases,
Limited knowledge is not binding;
New experiences await the finding.
Enthusiasm and library passes,
Crazy lectures, dull speech classes,
Cafeteria, gym, tunnels, fourth floor,
Teachers whom we just adore.

Junior prom, parties and dances,
IBM tests, SAT second chances,
Projects, reports, term papers to write,
Due the next day so we stay up all night.
Depth, understanding, philosophy talks,
World situation, long, thoughtful walks,
Collapse into bed at a quarter past one
Thinking of God and the homework undone.

Seniors proudly present their play,
Wear dirty sweatshirts on Senior Slob Day.
Almost overcome with too much advice
Simple conclusion: No college is nice.

SAT's, boards, worry, and wait,
Then we get into college and everything's great.
Gayly signing pages in countless yearbooks,
Nostalgically giving long final looks.
Sighing over what was missed and now lost,
In turmoil and lack of purpose are tossed.
Finally saying our last good-byes,
College now attracts our eyes.
Looking forward with hesitation
To a wonderful, happy-sad graduation.
